THE TREE HOUSE CHILDREN'S ADVOCACY CENTER Union County

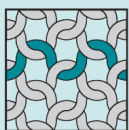

The Tree House Children's Advocacy Center is a child-friendly facility where child abuse professionals medically examine, forensically interview, and provide counseling intervention and advocacy.

The Tree House Children's Advocacy Center:

- The Tree House accepts referrals for interviews and medical exams only from law enforcement and child protective services.
- Comprehensive services for child abuse at no charge for children and families
- A safe place where children are listened to, respected and can tell what happened to them
- Forensic interview and complete head-to-toe medical evaluation by trained professionals
- Counseling, support groups, play therapy, court education, accompaniment and advocacy
- To minimize the trauma to a child and family, services are coordinated in conjunction with a community-based, multi-disciplinary team including law enforcement, social services, district attorney's office, medical providers and United Family Services.
- Professional prevention education and awareness of the prevalence of child abuse and neglect.
